Updates on your local Exchange stores

News from the General Manager

To all of our wonderful customers here on Kwaj that came out to take part in our Black Saturday sale, I would like to say, "THANKS!"

I know things were a bit short notice and that was due to us not getting merchandise earlier; I was not sure we were going to have enough merchandise to make it worth while. Next year will be bigger and better.

Due to your patronage, we had record sales, which in this business is always great. Once again, I would like to thank each and everyone on Kwaj for your patronage.

— Jeff Sweetenburg

Vending News

The Exchange Vending moved back into Building 816 on Tuesday. Their phone number has not changed, it is still 53379. They will resume services on all broken machines as soon as possible. Vending would also like to ask the guests who are staying above the Food Court in Lodging not to use the laundry machines. Issues with the machines are currently being resolved in as timely a manner as possible.

Food Court News

The monthly Food Calendar will be out soon with some great savings for all. Anthony's Pizza will resume full delivery service for the whole island beginning today. We are grateful for your patience while we worked on our delivery systems and hopefully as our valued customers you will see an improvement.

The Food Court has two eight-head Coke machines being shipped out to Kwajalein. Additional flavors will be dispensed your way in the near future.

John Hutchins, Food Court manager, would like to thank all of the people who let him know about the little things servicewise within the Food Court. These are opportunities to improve and better serve the community.

WWII veteran meets rescuers after 68 years

By Erin Worthington
Citrus County Chronicle Online

Words cannot illustrate their embrace. Three grown men held each other as their knuckles turned white from their tense grips. One of the men became weak in his knees and rested on the others. Wearing matching "Navy Veteran" hats, their arms overlapped as their bodies became one. Tears scurried down their faces as the reality of the reunion overpowered their emotions.

To the exact minute, this was the day these men had dreamed of for 68 years. Strangers who became lifelong brothers reunited Nov. 10, at 4:45 p.m., in Floral City, Fla.

Harrison "Dub" Miller, Burl Sousa and Ted Sonner are U.S. Navy veterans whose lives changed forever on Jan. 31, 1944. Navy Airman Miller was an aviation radioman on a two-seater observation aircraft known as a Kingfisher during World War II. Near the Marshall Islands, off Kwajalein, Miller and his pilot, Lt. Forney O. Fuqua, searched for enemy vessels while guiding the projectiles of the American ship USS New Mexico. Suddenly their aircraft was hit by enemy fire, fatally injuring Fuqua. Miller was forced to power the aircraft from the cockpit into the Pacific Ocean. Never having flown a plane before, Miller used his "backseat driver" knowledge.

"In the backseat I would always pretend to fly the plane," he said as he made an imaginary steering wheel with his hands. "I eased the plane down slowly."

Landing in rough water, Miller escaped and struggled to rescue Fuqua in gasoline-covered seawater. However, Miller was unable to liberate the pilot. The plane lost its pontoon in the landing and quickly capsized, forcing Miller to hang on.

"I was in the water for hours," Miller said. "All I could think about was survival and sharks. It seemed like forever."

As Miller became tired, Sousa and Sonner received word of a downed plane and began searching with their minesweeper, a small naval warship that searched to detonate enemy mines. Upon arrival, Sousa and Sonner found Miller holding on for life. They took him aboard ship and tried to tow his plane. However, their efforts soon turned dangerous.

Josh Vance, who helped reunite all three after 68 years.

"We began taking on fire," Sonner said. "We had to cut the line or we were going to sink."

Fuqua is believed to have gone down with the plane. Miller's rescue is a day he has never forgotten. The three men never saw each other again.

Fast-forward 65 years to August 2011. Maj. Josh Vance befriended Dan Farnham, who was searching for Miller and his plane, the Kingfisher. Both being history buffs, Vance began his search. When asked why he wanted to reunite three men he never met, he said, "It's an honor to work with these veterans. They have sacrificed so much and put their lives on hold when we needed them to defend this country and the world at the time. They are heroes."

After more than 100 hours of research, Vance tracked Miller down to Floral City and one phone call later the two were speaking. Miller acknowledged that he was indeed the missing aviation radioman that Vance and Farnham had been looking for. Furthermore, Sousa and Sonner were also found in Vance's search. Immediately, Vance began planning the reunion of the three Navy men.

Filled with emotions and many unanswered questions, the three veterans exchanged answers to their unknowns.

"I'd never seen him since that day," Sonner said. "I always wondered how he was and if he made it."

Miller's last words 68 years ago to the other two men were, "Thank you." These two heartfelt words were his exact words on [Nov. 10].

Students, teachers entertain with songs, skits, dances at Kwajalein high school Turkey Bowl

By Eva Seelye

Every year, the students of Kwajalein Jr./Sr. High School look forward to a fun-filled day of numerous festivities we like to call Turkey Bowl. This year, the event was held Nov. 22. The preceding week consisted of four different spirit days: Future Career Day, Pajama Day, Decade Day and Tacky Day. Then, each class was given the task of creating a captivating poster and a catchy cheer to please the judges – volunteers from the community.

As each student filed through the MP Room's doors that morning in their assigned class colors, excitement filled the air. As soon as the seniors walked in fashionably late, Turkey Bowl began. The seventh grade started the ceremony with their class cheer. As soon as the cheers were enthusiastically performed, Rachel DeLange, John Sholar, Leightyn Cossey and Jennifer Hibberts began the Senior Salutes (a poem describing each individual senior).

Hagar Kabua was introduced as the Mistress of Ceremonies and she instantly advanced to the acts. The variety of talent was magnificently portrayed by many of the students at the high school. Many singing acts included Dayna Hepler and Ruthie Long performing Taylor Swift, Addison Cossey and Ciara Swanby singing "Poker Face" by Lady Gaga, and "Triple A" singing "One Thing" with Angelo Lelet on the ukulele. They were all truly remarkable as they captured the audience's attention with their finesse. Teachers Ric Fullerton and Barbara Bicanich also put on a show; they emerged lip syncing and acting to "Romeo and Juliet." This spiked the excitement through the student body as well as many of the guests. A couple dance groups prepared intriguing routines as well. A group of students danced to "Azonto." The well-loved EC group performed with their unique dance moves that made the crowd go wild. However, the audience didn't know what to expect when the school teachers emerged from the curtains in baggy sweatpants and upside-down visors. The two groups engaged in a dance battle – the audience erupted in laughter and cheers.

A group of girls also prepared a mesmerizing hula dance. The sophomore class danced to the hit song, "Call Me Maybe," with the help of Bicanich and Hayden Heidle. They also performed a fast-paced song about the periodic table of elements with the help of their physics teacher, Kristin Hosek.

Even though it was time for lunch, there was still one act remaining – the finale. Jamie Simpson walked the school through their musical past with hit songs from their childhood such as Barney, Pokemon, Britney Spears, Lil'Mama, Hannah Montana, Justin Beiber, Wiz Khalifa, and finally Taylor Swift's "We Are Never Ever Getting Back Together." The performances were unforgettable and the performers did a great job putting everything together.

That afternoon, the entire high school headed to Camp Hamilton for fun and games. Water balloon launchers were a popular activity. The egg toss was a success as was Tug-of-War. Each class competed against one another, fighting their way to the top slot on the scoreboard. The competition was fierce, but after many games, the juniors ended up on top with the seniors coming in second. The rest of the day was spent relaxing on the beach or swimming in the water.

Great weather, great fishing at Aggregate Weight Derby

Article and photos by Trudy Butler
Aggregate Weight Derby Coordinator

The Aggregate Weight Fishing Derby held on Kwajalein this past Sunday was a great success with just about perfect weather conditions and lots of fish caught. Teams' catches weighed in at just under 1,000 pounds of fish from all different categories: ahi, mahi, ono, rainbow runner, dogtooth and kawa kawa (six out of seven derby categories).

There were a total of 13 teams comprised of Kwajalein's finest anglers participating in the derby. A total of $1,800 in prize monies was awarded to the top three teams with the heaviest aggregate weight by fish category.

Team "Dolphin Gaffers," captained by Jon Mitchell and crew members Jerrod English, Preston Page, Greg Spock and Jay Rowe, captured first place with 137 pounds of mahi mahi, winning $900.

Team "Makuakane," captained by Dalbert Delacruz and crew members Mike Pimenta, Darryl Mathieson, Cindy Mathieson and Tony Janoski, took second place with 112 pounds of mahi, winning $540.

Captain Yoshi Kemem and crew members Brad Walker, Frank Campbell, Don Muse and Shawn Hebert took third place with 96 pounds of ono, winning $360.

Captain Tony Maika and crew members David Shimaoka, Herring Robert, Joel Aldea and Solomon Salvan were also awarded a $240 side pot for their awesome 44.5-pound yellowfin tuna.

It was a great day of fishing for sure with this derby producing more fish than any fishing derby or tournament held at Kwajalein within the past couple of years. Every boat returned to the harbor with fish!

A very special thanks to the Small Boat Marina staff for supporting derby activities throughout the day and also a special thanks to all those who volunteered to assist with weigh-in and other derby related activities. Thanks also to all Kwajalein anglers that participated in the derby and until next time, "Fish On!"

Tropical climate equals faster dehydration

We live in a very warm climate here on our island in the Western Pacific (which is about nine degrees above the equator), and even though water is all around us, we may be lulled into a false sense of security that we drink enough liquids. The effects of dehydration are insidious and not often apparent. When deployed to the desert regions of Southwest Asia, it was a priority for our Service Members to stay hydrated for mission readiness, and we were encouraged to drink a liter an hour when in the field; it is no less important here.

Water is 60 percent of our bodies; every organ and physiologic system depends on it. Even mild dehydration can sap our energy. Signs and symptoms of dehydration include thirst (if you're thirsty, you are very dehydrated), fatigue, headache, dry mouth, little urination, weakness and light-headedness.

We sweat a lot out here, especially working or playing outdoors, and that fluid needs to be replaced. How much water we need varies, but if we drink when we're thirsty, we're already dehydrated. The Army says one's urine needs to be straw-colored, and that's a good guideline. Urine output is about 1.5 liters a day for an average adult, and we lose another liter a day by normal breathing, sweating, and bodily functions. A guideline is to drink eight 8-ounce glasses of water a day, and a big glass of water when you first arise in the morning. Alcohol can be dehydrating; watch the alcohol consumption out here. It is possible to drink too much water, but that is very rare in normal adults who have an average diet. One's average diet out here should provide the required salt and other electrolytes, and replacement of salt and electrolytes is provided on an emergency basis. The tap water is very good out here, thanks to our significant aquifer lens, above average rainfall this season, and the excellent water treatment plant; there is no excuse to not consume enough water each day. New arrivals should gradually acclimatize to the weather; it usually takes about two weeks.

Another issue out here is the strong sun in the late morning and afternoon hours, which can make one susceptible to heat cramps, heat exhaustion and even heat stroke. Heat stroke is a medical emergency, resulting from a breakdown in the body's ability to regulate its temperature. Symptoms are extremely high body temperature, loss of consciousness, convulsions, delirium, headache, dizziness, weakness, nausea, absent sweating, hot, dry, flushed skin, and rapid pulse and respiration. This is an emergency; one needs to call 9-1-1 for transport to the hospital. In the meantime, remove constricting clothes, elevate the feet, sprinkle water over the victim and fan them to facilitate evaporation and cooling; if conscious, have them drink a canteen of room temperature water.

Drink plenty of water, and we'll see you in health!

"Buoy" Scouts Kayak Adventure

This past weekend, the Kwajalein Boy Scouts had an overnight camping trip 'Kwaj style.' Scouts back in the States rarely get an opportunity to kayak across the ocean at a tropical destination and camp on the beach. The weather was perfect, the waves were manageable and the campfire was great. Scouts earned the Kayaking Merit Badge and practiced starting camp fires with only one match – more or less.

CHRISTMAS ISLAND LIGHT UP THE NIGHT!

Have you ever watched "National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation" and envied Clark Griswold's amazing spectacle of lights? Well, now it is your turn. Quality of Life in conjunction with Community Activities, National Honor Society, Student Council and Spartan Espresso are sponsoring a holiday decorating contest. The rules are simple:

1. Decorate your quarters to be visible from the outside. Residence numbers must be visible (i.e. 455-A or Coral 201).
2. Register with Community Activities by Thursday with your name, quarters and street (we want to ensure all participating residents are included on the caroling route).
3. Pick up your ballot from your Post Office Box (one per household, ride around as a family and pick your favorite).
4. Return your ballot to Community Activities by noon on Dec. 15 or at the caroling event in the MP room.
5. Winners are announced at the caroling event. Cash prizes are awarded in two categories: BQ and Family Housing.

Community Caroling and Christmas Island Light up the Night will be at 6:30 p.m., Dec. 15, in the High School MP Room. Come enjoy an evening of caroling accompanied by hot chocolate, coffee, cookies, hot dog supper and snacks. Vote for your favorite decorated quarters and stay tuned for the announcement of the winners.

Important Information: Reclaimed Water System (Northwestern Tip, Industrial End of Kwajalein

One of the seven routine sampling points within the reclaim (non-potable) water distribution system on Kwajalein Island frequently does not meet the chlorine residual standard (chlorine residual below the compliance level). Although this situation does not require you to take any precautions, public notification is required annually under these circumstances.

The USAKA Environmental Standards require that water entering, and within the reclaim water distribution system meets certain residual chlorine levels to reduce the potential for bacteriological growth. In 2005, one of the sampling points at the northwestern portion of Kwajalein was changed from the photo lab to the liquid nitrogen plant to better reflect the extremities of the distribution system. This new sampling point shows residual chlorine levels which are less than the minimum compliance standard. The low chlorine residual is associated with user locations northwest of Olympus Drive on the industrial end of the island. It is important to note that the water entering the distribution systems is acceptable and all other sampling points meet or exceed compliance standards.

What Does This Mean?

As a precaution, daily samples will continue to be collected and analyzed for coliform bacteria each time the chlorine residual falls below the compliance level. Samples taken thus far have been negative (or non-detect) for the presence of coliform bacteria.

What Is Being Done To Correct The Problem?

A reduction in the diameter of the reclaimed water lines will prevent water from sitting in the pipes long enough to expend its chlorine.

Contact the Utilities Department at 51847 or the Environmental Department at 51134 if you have any questions regarding this notice or the suitability of the water systems.
